THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 22.

THE WEDDING STOPDED AT THE ALTAR,-There was a strange scene at Cincinnati one day last week. A respectable and intelligent young lady was engaged to be married, and made discovery that her effianced was in the habit of drinking, and told him what she had learned. He promised never to drink again, and she forgave him. The wedding day was subsequently set-all west well until the mercing appointed for the performance of the ceremony. During the interval he made his usual visits, and though he drack at times, his betrothed never learned of his faithlessness until it was nearly too late to punish him for it. They were stand ing side by side and a mement more would have found them man and wife, when he turned towards her and his tell tale breath spoke of whisky. When the minister propounded the usual question to her, the response came faintly "No." la surprise the question was again asked, and this time the response was clear and decisive, 'No." She turned to her lover, accused him of dricking, remitded him of his promise to her, and said that a man who would break a promise so solemnly made, could not be relied upon, and she feared to trust her tuture to such a man. Expostulation and entreatics were all in vain, and that little "Yes" still remaics ussaid .- Cincinnati Times.
